Christopher Evans

Computer Science Teacher at Arlington Classics Academy

> 66 Teaching computer science has been the most rewarding experience of my career!"

Christopher has been teaching computer science at Arlington Classics Academy Middle, a public charter school in Arlington, Texas, for over 10 years. But he only began teaching computer science 2 years ago after earning his computer science teaching certificate.

What does Read, Write, Code mean to you?

"To me Read, Write, Code means that coding and computer science are not reserved for computer geeks. Coding is approachable, useful, and the skill are applicable to everyone. I feel that all students can benefit from learning to code even if they have no aspirations in the field. Just as reading and writing allow a student to shape their world through words, coding can shape their future."

CodeHS